My Dear Sir

Thanks for your favor of the 27th May. I will not offer the "Thorwaldsen" portrait in any other quarter, until I hear from you after the early June meeting of your Board. If the prospect of sale at the Foreman Gallery is not then promising, I will try elsewhere.

It is just possible that I may continue to act for the Treasurer of the Museum, - transacting the business here, at my own Office.

I shall hope to meet you in the Autumn. The Museum will not, I think, be open before November.

Yours very truly

Cincinnati June 3rd 49 Dr James M<sup>r</sup> Cleod, Washington DC
 Dear Dr

I have made all possible inquiries regarding Genl Harrison's portrait & I have just sent an exparing to M<sup>r</sup> Corcoran that I consider the best in existence. The portrait by Beard in possession of Col Taylor is a replique of one in the Mercantile Library & one of many repliques in existence.

It is very clumsy & the features of the Genl at no time handsome

In case I do not come to Washington, I will write again regarding the portrait itself as soon as I get the necessary information. In the meantime I have no doubt that Mr. Concoran's memory & your own will be valuable to decide as well as any of the Genl's acquaintances here. I will further state that in spite of the ugliness of the Beard portrait it is considered a likeness & I should also think it was from the characteristics of the Genl outlined to me by Mr. Concoran & yourself.

Pardon me for omitting to acknowledge receipt of your kind letter

2 have their ugliness much exaggerated. All those here (& they are many) who knew Genl. Harrison, say that this engraving is the best in existence. The plate is in possession of one of Cincinnati's oldest citizens & one who as art dealer, is best posted in these matters.

I forgot in the haste of sending the photo to inquire the whereabouts of the painting but feel confident that the engraving contains all the requisites of likeness.

Please request Mr. Concoran to accept the engraving & if he would like it copied I will let him know where to send it but I have been on the go ever since I left you.

I have three orders to fill before July 1 and may then go to Europe. Please write me regarding the engraving of Steubenville Ohio at your early convenience With kindest regards to M<sup>r</sup> Conneran, Dr Barberin & the Class & by no means omitting yourself & M<sup>rs</sup> M<sup>c</sup>C

Mr. W. W. Concoran -

Dear Sir -

I wrote you some weeks ago concerning a statue in which I desired to interest you - the Pearl Drive, by the late artist, Paul Skees. From your reply I judged that you misapprehended me, or that I failed to express myself clearly. You seemed to gather that it was a picture, and that I wished you to buy it for your own private collection. I only hoped that you might bring it to the notice of the Curators, directors or advisors of the Gallery, which bears your name. And that by your counsel and perhaps assistance, it might be added to that already fine collection.

I write now concerning another but a similar matter. I see by the newspapers that the Gallery is collecting - chiefly,

I enclose through your help - a series of busts and portraits of representative American men. And I wish to call your attention to an especially fine bust of the late Em-mit Smith, which I have thus far kept in my possession, but which it is now highly necessary that I should sell. The bust represents Mr. Smith in the prime of his powers, and at his best estate, and is a beautiful piece of work. It is undoubtedly declared, as Mr. Henry Wilson told me, that it was the best likeness of him which they had ever seen. Surely, a portrait bust of Emmit Smith deserves a place among those of representative Americans, and it could be put in no more fit position than in a national gallery at Washington.

Mr. Atkins was so much pleased with his success in the bust, that he always refused to sell it during his life, intending it for his own private collection - but his death broke up all those pleasant plans, and made it necessary that I should sell the remaining mas-sels as soon as possible. The bust has never been reproduced, and gains an additional value from that fact, and from the fact that the artist will do no more work, and his numbers, though fine, are few. Still, my need is so great that I should accept a smaller sum for the bust, or the statue either, than they are really worth.

If you could mention the matter to those interested in building up a gallery of American portraits, and use your influence toward the purchase, it would be a great kindness both to me and to the art-collection.

In proof of my good faith, I can refer you to the editor of Scribner's Monthly, Dr. Hollander, who will remember me as a contributor. Mr.

John E. Whittier, the poet, will assume you of my honesty and responsibility.
Mr. August Belmont, the banker of New York, knows Mr. Atkes's work well, having given him several commissions in Rome.

Allow me to hope that you will kindly consider the matter, and believe me yours very respectfully Elizabeth Atkes Allen.

Sargent's for me - 1/

Dear Mr. Amick

We have three valuable paintings - a Stuart, an Self + a Kneller - which are in a bad condition and need doing up.
I am anxious to consult you about them. Would you object to my sending them by express to the gallery, that you might examine them and give me your opinion, when I call, as I hope to do, the last of this week. If they can be done up in Washington I want because he had just had an attack of typhoid fever.

By my request - came - for the least inconvenience or expense to say so.

With kind regards,

Very sincerely yours

Harold H. Randolph

there some life there, it is not worth while to know who I have not seen since then.

The Strait is a portrait of Madison. It was transferred twenty-five years ago to a new canvas. Owing to the process used, I think, the paint is peeling off. The face, as yet, is unaltered.
We value the picture very much.
Madison & Jefferson exchanged portraits each by Strait - and this is the Madison, taken when he was a young man with a beautifully thoughtful face - looking delicate
